Grant Purpose	This exploration incorporates science, language arts, technology, and art into a creative and challenging project for my gifted 6th graders. Gifted students need a creative outlet in order to synthesize their learning. This addresses the new standards in science, which includes the language arts component. It will engage and challenge my students!
Grant Activities	Students select a Hubble image of a space object. The teaching artist works with the students to research and write a scientific paper on their object. Students are then taught how to paint their image using resist technique.
Grant Budget Items	The entire budget is for the teaching artist, Pam Sumner. She spends 10 days at the school working with the students. Additionally, she supplies all art materials.
After Grant Plans	It would be difficult to repeat the art experience in this exploration without the artist, however, it could be done with a different type of art technique.
